

Hi

I want to inquire about the potential opportunity of bringing in equality, equity, and diversity consultation within our organization. As I know how much we value our staff, clients, and community members, I see it as a necessary step in our current social and political climate to do our part. Many businesses and organizations are evaluating how they can set precedence in contributing to a more equitable and ethical community, especially with consumers paying close attention to who is doing the work.

I wanted to refer Nine Rising to our organization for consideration to support our growth and learning. Nine Rising is a consulting agency that supports businesses in authentically prioritizing diversity and equity within their organization. They focus on enrolling teams and infrastructure in ethical and sustainable shifts, that align with true diversity and equity for all humans to thrive.

I'm happy to connect you to their team via email, or if you would like to consider reaching out here is their contact information:
